Descrizione

From Rifugio Tazzetti, you follow the path that crosses with bends the steep slope behind the building and reaches a marked ridge that comes from the Colle della Resta. Walk along the ridge to the base of the shale bastion that supports and directs the Glacier de Rochemelon; pass it following the trail tracks that lead to the watershed line, a short distance from the glacier. Colle della Resta (3183 m). Go down to the flat spread of the Glacier de Rochemelon and cross it south-westwards. You will arrive to a creek on the north-west ridge. You climb up the mild hill to the top. The only part of this route that could be unsafe is the wall of stones that leads to the Colle della Resta. Hikers should proceed close each other, carefully in order to avoid the movement of unstable stones. Just below the summit there is a Refuge, always open, with fifteen beds. As the refuge is a popular destination, it could be overbooked. On clear days, from the top you'll appreciate a 360° wide sight.
