Descrizione

The third and last stage of Via dell'Acqua starts from the municipality of Villanova d'Asti until San Paolo Solbrito. We leave the concentric, then, northerly along the old road to Chieri, cross the highway and look out into a large agricultural area that we will travel until we arrive at the settlement that arose near the railway station, a very important junction of communication of the territory. From here we continue northwards, arriving in the hamlet of Savi. The local church, dedicated to S. Marco Evangelista dei Savi, is the work of students of Juvarra. From here we enter along dirt roads that cross large wooded areas and continue along the Rio Traversola that leads directly to San Paolo Solbrito. This concentric has ancient Roman origins and has followed the same vicissitudes that have accompanied many of the towns of Asti. Located along the Via Fulvia, it has been owned several times, from family to family, until it finally became part of the possessions of the Savoy family. Of particular importance is, in the local creed, the Sanctuary of the Madonna di Serra.
